

Press ReleaseEnglish VersionTwo 50% Scholarships for Master of Science Digital Media Degree Programme at the ISNM

Lübeck, 3 July 2006. The ISNM offers two 50% tuition scholarships to applicants from the United States and Canada who intend to pursue the internationally accredited degree Master of Science in Digital Media. In October 2006 the fifth generation of students will take up the interdisciplinary study programme at the International School of New Media at the University of Lübeck.

The international accreditation agency ZeVA, Hannover, lauds the 24-month postgraduate programme Master of Science in „Digital Media“ for its 3 special „i“-qualities in both teaching and research: international, intercultural, interdisciplinary. The unique connection between media technology and development of intercultural and management competences qualifies ISNM’s students and graduates from five continents for leading positions in management. The two tuition scholarships are reserved for applicants from North America. Application deadline for scholarships: July, 31 2006.
